Data Collection

In creating the T3AM To-Do application, the team decided to utilize Firebase for database purposes. The data collected from users include information like personal data, such as name, email address, and desired username and password. Other data includes inputted information about each specific task entered such as task title, date of task or deadline, whether or not the task has been completed, and what the task's category is.